

Technology Internship at Giv.to

Description: An internship with Giv.to provides an opportunity for gaining practical knowledge; hands-on experience; and research skills in information technology, web applications development, and entrepreneurship via the web. The internship is suitable for professionals who wish to improve their qualifications in specific programming languages, gain experience and mentorship working in a small, highly creative, fast-paced team, and develop technology at the forefront of social media web applications. Universities and media and research organizations are invited to benefit from this internship.

Time Line: Application Deadline: On-going

Internship Period: Minimum 1 month, maximum 2 years, with possibility for full-time employment

Workload: Full time or part time, but no less than 2 hours/week

Location: Remote or at Giv.to Offices in Washington DC

Technology Internships: Interns following this stream will focus on the nuts and bolts of the online application for Giv.to, responding to customer development requests and testing the system.

Interns will work on such tasks as:

- Writing and validating Javascript;
- Web design and UI
- Ruby programming in the Rails and Sinatra web frameworks
- Customizing and testing Giv.to tools based on client feedback;
- Reviewing and summarizing back-end data analytics for client reporting purposes;

An individual work plan and/or research program will be designed for each accepted intern. A combination of research and practical tasks is also possible.

Benefits

The intern will receive in-depth knowledge of and practical experience in web development, nonprofit fundraising, fundraising via twitter, product sales, and various other tasks related to technology entrepreneurship.

The intern will receive guidance and supervision by a team of seasoned business professionals.

The intern will be a part of the Giv.to's highly dynamic team and will have access to Giv.to events as well as Washington DC technology events.

Payment and Compensation:

- Work-related expenses such as transportation will be covered for accepted candidates.
- This is a non-paid internship, but payment may be offered to exceptional candidates based on experience and proficiency in the assigned tasks.
- The intern must have a personal computer.
- Giv.to may extend a full-time offer of employment, contingent upon performance.
